

General Electric Strike Enters Its Second Week

By The Associated Press

A strike of union production workers against the General Electric Co. went into its second week Monday with sporadic disorders reported, but comparative calm at most struck plants.

From Tampa, Fla., came a report by GE branch manager Joe Albritton that the nine-day strike of 77,000 members of the International Union of Electrical Workers has created a shortage of some major electrical appliances turned out by the company.

In Washington, the Pentagon said enough GE-produced components are on hand for the Navy's Polaris missile program, the Air Force's Atlas, Titan and Minuteman ICBM programs, and various Army missile, aircraft and electronic deliveries.

However, Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates was described by a spokesman as believing the strike is "bound to have an impact if it continues."

The Pentagon reportedly found the situation difficult to analyze because many GE plants still are producing up to 90 per cent, while others are shut down. The IUE strike is directed against the 55 of GE's 166 plants where the union claims membership.

The Federal Mediation Service, scheduled new peace talks this week, but an exchange of recriminations between company and union led the IUE to predict "very little will be accomplished."

The IUE strike began Oct. 2, with about a third of GE's 240,000 employees eventually involved. The IUE sought a 3½ per cent per year increase in wages that averaged $2.30 to $2.40 an hour, plus a union shop and retention of a cost-of-living escalator clause.

GE offered a three year contract with a 3 per cent wage increase immediately, plus 4 per cent more in April, 1962. However, the company sought elimination of the cost-of-living escalator.

Escape Artist Placed On Most Wanted List

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A violent-tempered fugitive known as "Spider" — Charles Francis Higgins — became one of the FBI's 10 most wanted criminals Monday.

He is described as being a hard drinker and a "fast-traveling and elusive escape artist with a violent nature and many aliases. He has been in trouble with the law in California, Florida, Michigan, Missouri and Colorado.

The 54-year-old criminal broke out of a Colorado prison July 28, 1959, and has been at large ever since. He had been serving a term for robbery.

State To Push Road Projects In Capital Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Tawes said Monday Maryland will spend 20 per cent of its road funds in the next five years toward completion of radial highways into Washington and construction on the National Capital Beltway.

And for critics of the State's lag in completing a final link of the John Hanson Highway (U.S. 50) into Washington, Tawes said: "I expect as governor to cut the ribbon on the final leg linking it with the Kenilworth interchange, opening it to traffic late next summer on early next fall."

A Washington columnist recently recalled that former Gov. William Preston Lane Jr. broke ground for the first leg of the dual-lane expressway between Washington and Annapolis. He wondered if the last four miles would ever be completed before Tawes, who took office eight years after Lane, finished a four-year term.

Tawes spoke at the ninth annual Commissioners' and Governors' Conference on Metropolitan Washington Traffic Problems.

He said the State Roads Commission, under a recently accelerated program, will spend $74 million over the next five years on all types of roads in the Washington metropolitan area.

The total comes to an even 20 per cent of the State's $370 million program.

Most of these will be "radial" highways, those being converted into multi-lane urban highways through the Maryland counties surrounding Washington. The SRC has earmarked $18 million for such radials in Prince Georges County and $13.6 million in Montgomery.

Man Dies After Legs Severed By Train

BALTIMORE (AP) — John Buettner, 49, a foreman at the Sparrows Point plant of Bethlehem Steel Company, died at Maryland General Hospital Monday after an accident in which both of his legs were cut off by a train.

A company spokesman said Buettner was working in the open hearth scrap yard Sunday night when the train ran over him. No other details were given.

Billingsgate Fish Market Merchants Turn Artists

LONDON (AP) — What a work of art is the mackerel! Ah! the subtlety of the herring! The glory that is the back of the kipper!

These strange sentiments came waiting out of Billingsgate Fish Market, deep in the throes of culture in anticipation of an exhibition of paintings by fish merchants on Nov. 22.

This is remarkable because Billingsgate usually rings—or so the legend goes—with the most unprintable unprintables in the English language.

"It was not until I started to paint the back of a kipper—with all its golds, blues and greens—that I realized how beautiful is the back of a kipper," enthused Bill Utting, 60, a wholesale fish company secretary, now an eager man with a brush.

"It's amazing, the colors in a kipper, when you really come to look at it. Not one that's been done too much, of course. A lightly cured one has some lovely colors."

To the less initiated, a kipper is a herring that has been "cured,"—split, salted and smoke-dried. Kippers have taken on a new and more beautiful meaning than just a breakfast dish.

Why the Billingsgate fish art? The answer came from S. L. Penstone who first thought up the idea.

"The general impression is that we come down here and use bad language and that sort of thing. We want to show there is a bit of culture in the place and that we can rise to occasions such as this," he said.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 51-year-old former office building watchman and part-time clergyman was sentenced to life imprisonment Monday for murder and arson.

Emil O. Peterson, who pleaded guilty to the murder charge involving a fatal fire and to arson in connection with other fires, was sentenced by Judges J. Gilbert Prendergast and S. Ralph Warnken.

The judges could have sentenced Peterson to death since the fire death was first-degree murder under Maryland law. They did impose additional consecutive sentences totaling 45 years for six other fires.

According to testimony, Peterson told police and psychiatrists he derived thrills from setting and seeing fires.

Employment, Joblessness Both Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported Monday a modest improvement in jobs last month. But an official conceded the unemployment situation is "far from satisfactory by any standard."

The Labor Department said both employment and unemployment went down in September, largely influenced by seasonal factors. The main factor was the return of young workers to school.

The rate of idled workers in the total labor force dropped slightly from 5.9 per cent in August to 5.7 per cent in September.

This means that 57 out of 1,000 able and willing workers couldn't find jobs, as compared with 59 out of 1,000 a month earlier.

AFL-CIO economists discounted this small improvement. They said the 5.7 idle rate is the highest for September in any non-recession year since World War II. And they said initial claims in September for unemployment compensation totaled the highest on record for the month.

The government's job figures for September showed employment declined from 68.28 million in August to 67.77 million—still a record high for September. The drop was 515,000—less than a decrease of 750,000 jobs that was expected in September for seasonal reasons.

Kidnap-Slaying Suspect Seized

COLOMBO, Ceylon (UPI) — Ceylonese police Monday arrested Stephen Leslie Bradley, wanted for the kidnaping and murder of 8-year-old Australian Graeme Thorne.

He was taken into custody aboard the Europe-bound ship Himalaya as she put into port Monday morning. Australian High Commissioner J. C. Kevin said that he would appear Tuesday in Colombo's joint magistrate's court and that Bradley's wife and three children, also aboard the ship, would continue on to Marseille, France.

The Thorne boy was kidnaped last July. The kidnaping was the first for ransom in Australian history. Weeks after his abduction he was found murdered.

"I can't tell you how much the telephone meant to me for the last six weeks," writes Mrs. Long

MRS. CARROLL G. LONG, of Salisbury, arranging rides for Joanne and Mike while she was convalescing.

"My foot and leg have been in a cast for the past six weeks. As a result, the telephone has been all-important to me—chatting with friends to relieve the boredom of having to stay home; getting rides for the kids; calling my twin sister and friends to do errands and take me shopping."

Mrs. Long went on to say, "A telephone seems to be the No. 1 necessity to kids. (She has two, Mike 16 and Joanne 11½.) The time and peace of mind which the telephone saved us are worth much more than the money involved."

The comforting knowledge that your telephone is always ready to keep you in touch with all the world outside your home, can't be measured in money alone. And yet if you were to keep a telephone diary, you too would probably find your phone more than pays for itself in money saved, as well as in time and travel.

Mrs. Long's telephone diary shows the money her phone saved her in just four weeks—and the time and mileage it saved her, and those who phoned to chat or lend a hand.

$33 Million Spent By State To Aid Needy

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Department of Public Welfare spent more than $33 million during the 1960 fiscal year to assist the needy throughout Maryland. The annual report submitted to Gov. Tawes Monday noted that $16.8 million was federal funds, $10.2 million came from State funds and $6.8 million from local sources.

The spending during the period which ended June 30 was $3.4 million over the previous year, with gains registered in every category of relief distribution.

The report by Dr. Alvin Thalheimer, chairman of the Welfare Board, said that increased public assistance expenditures were due in part to higher standards for food and school supplies for children as provided by the 1959 General Assembly.

There also was an increase in the aid to dependent children and aid to the disabled. The report said that during June 8,610 families, representing 28,207 children, received an average payment of $113.69 in the aid to children category. Aid to the disabled went to 6,189, with an average payment of $63.82.

Increased administration costs included salary increases and added positions made available in the 1960 budget. John R. Foley, Sixth District 5 per cent; Samuel N. Friedel, Seventh, 17; Richard E. Lankford, Fifth, 25; Edward A. Garmatz, Third, 22; Thomas F. Johnson, First, 31; Daniel B. Brewster, Second, 32; and George H. Fallon, Fourth, 39.

Maryland Briefs

Protest Aftermath

BALTIMORE (AP) — Five students and a professor at Morgan State College were released in $100 bail Monday pending grand jury action on charges of trespassing at a restaurant in protest to racial discrimination.

The sit-down protestants to Negro discrimination in turn swore out warrants charging three employees of the restaurant with assault by pushing.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A new chapel with a capacity of about 350 was dedicated at the Maryland Penitentiary.

The penitentiary inmates did most of the work and paid for it with money from their welfare fund. The fund is supported by a commissary where the prisoners can purchase candy, cigarettes and other items.

The dedication services were conducted Sunday.

BALTIMORE (AP) — William F. Skipper, 59, of Stevenson, was struck and killed by a car while walking along the Baltimore-Harrisburg Expressway Sunday night. The death increased the 1960 toll in Maryland to 406, or two less than a year ago.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The City Jail board asked Monday for a $3.2 million bond issue, plus about $3 million aid from the State, for construction of a women's detention building and a rehabilitation center for alcoholics and indigents.

Probers To Hold Second Hearing At Reformatory

BALTIMORE (AP) — A legislative committee studying Maryland's prison system will make a second trip to the Reformatory for Males near Hagerstown next week.

An aide to the committee headed by Sen. Edwin O. Weant, D-Carroll, said Monday the group will hold a hearing at the reformatory Oct. 20.

At a similar session Sept. 30 the committee heard witnesses testify that jobs on the reformatory staff were filled on the basis of partisan politics.

Clement J. Ferling, superintendent of the institution, said a State Board of Correction member picked seven men to fill new positions on the staff.

He also testified the board member, William H. Reiser Jr., had sought the dismissal of Deputy Superintendent Robert L. Clopper on grounds that Clopper himself had engaged in political activity "in his job."

The only other witness at the first hearing was Dr. Robert Conrad, who told the committee that staff morale was lower than at any other time during his 26 years as prison doctor.

He accused Superintendent of Prisons James W. Curran of issuing "capricious orders" and calling in other medical personnel to examine inmates without advising Conrad. He also said his relationship with Ferling had deteriorated to a point where they passed each other in the reformatory corridors without speaking.

The study began after about 14,000 inmates at the reformatory, the State Penitentiary in Baltimore and the House of Correction at Jessup staged a no-work strike last summer. They were protesting changes in regulations involving time taken off their sentences for performing jobs assigned them.

Two Prisoners Plead Guilty

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Two inmates of the Reformatory for Males pleaded guilty in Circuit Court Monday to charges of assaulting a guard and locking him in a solitary confinement cell in an escape attempt last Aug. 5.

Robert B. Sadler and Dannie E. Palm, both 18, appeared before Judge D. K. McLaughlin who said he wanted to consider their past records before imposing sentence.

Guard Marvin Trumpower, 35, said the two youths were in a solitary confinement cell when they asked for some paper. When he opened the door to give it to them, he was grabbed, pulled inside and his keys were taken.

The prisoners locked the guard in the cell, and then unlocked all other cells in the block but the other prisoners refused to join them in the break attempt. Trumpower told the court.

The two went down a flight of stairs and were spotted by an other guard, who gave the alarm. The prisoners were captured immediately.

Polio Inoculation Appeal Renewed

BALTIMORE (AP) — Another appeal was directed to parents Monday to make certain their children get all their polio inoculations as the number of cases increased in the Baltimore area.

The latest victims included a 2-year-old Baltimore city girl, an 8-year-old boy living in the southeastern section of the county and a 4-year-old girl from the northeastern section.

The Baltimore city case total was increased to 65 for the year, and now totals seven in the county.

The three new cases had received three polio inoculations.

Dr. Huntington Williams, commissioner of health, in urging inoculation of children, said that four of the shots will provide 85 to 90 per cent protection against the crippling malady.

Bethel Group Celebrates Birthday

The WSCS of Bethel Methodist Church will join the Centerville church to observe "The Week of Prayer and Self Denial," October 26. Mrs. Kenneth Jewell conducted the meeting Friday, in conjunction with the 20th anniversary of the society. A routine report was given by Mrs. Robert Shoemaker.

It was voted to accept the supply askings, continue the "Upper Room," and consider sending copies to students and service men. It was decided to meet November 4 to prepare reports due the 15th.

The group then joined in the celebration of the 20th birthday by giving the call of worship in unison. The hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past, Our Hope for Years to Come" was sung with Miss Joyce Anderson as pianist. The purpose of the WSCS was given by Mrs. Charles Zembower and the history of the local society was compiled by Mrs. Kenneth Zembower, Mrs. Dwayne Hite and Mrs. George Grabenstein and was presented by Mrs. Zembower. Mrs. John Rose, the past president, talked on "Looking Backward" and Mrs. Jewell, spoke on "Looking Forward Locally." She told of the many plans of the church—the large plan now in progress being the redecoration of the sanctuary. She added that the challenge for the group is great and that each one can make the plans a reality with continued support. Appropriate programs were prepared by Mrs. John S. Park and she also gave the evening prayer. The group concluded with the singing of the Hymn, "Dear Master, In Whose Life I See" and the benediction was given by Mrs. Hite.

Mrs. Minnie Elliot and Mrs. Ora Oster were honored as charter members and were presented gifts.

A covered dish supper was then held for all members and friends of the church. A tiered birthday cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Marshall Cooley, Mrs. John Rose and Mrs. Jewell. Bethel Group Celebrates Birthday

The WSCS of Bethel Methodist Church will join the Centerville church to observe "The Week of Prayer and Self Denial," October 26. Mrs. Kenneth Jewell conducted the meeting Friday, in conjunction with the 20th anniversary of the society. A routine report was given by Mrs. Robert Shoemaker.

It was voted to accept the supply askings, continue the "Upper Room," and consider sending copies to students and service men. It was decided to meet November 4 to prepare reports due the 15th.

The group then joined in the celebration of the 20th birthday by giving the call of worship in unison. The hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past, Our Hope for Years to Come" was sung with Miss Joyce Anderson as pianist. The purpose of the WSCS was given by Mrs. Charles Zembower and the history of the local society was compiled by Mrs. Kenneth Zembower, Mrs. Dwayne Hite and Mrs. George Grabenstein and was presented by Mrs. Zembower. Mrs. John Rose, the past president, talked on "Looking Backward" and Mrs. Jewell, spoke on "Looking Forward Locally." She told of the many plans of the church—the large plan now in progress being the redecoration of the sanctuary. She added that the challenge for the group is great and that each one can make the plans a reality with continued support. Appropriate programs were prepared by Mrs. John S. Park and she also gave the evening prayer. The group concluded with the singing of the Hymn, "Dear Master, In Whose Life I See" and the benediction was given by Mrs. Hite.

Low Bidder Protests City's Award

Representatives of a firm which ferred. He said the city has sought to sell a grader to the similar machine, knows what it city Street Department protested can do, and it has been recom- award of the equipment to a firm mended by men in the department which had submitted a higher bid and the city engineer. Purchase of another machine of the same type also allows for future stan- dardization of parts, Long said, adding that he thought all these things "outweigh $700."

The Mayor and Council order to purchase a grader from the John C. Louis Company of Balti- more for $13,500 brought a protest from Ronald Athey, local repre- sentative of the Chesapeake Sup- ply and Equipment Company, also of Baltimore, and the firm's president, G. K. Owens.

Athey said the Chesapeake firm was low bidder with $14,784.83 or more than $700 under the suc- cessful bidder and questioned why the city was paying more when the firm's grader of a different type met specifications.

Street Commissioner John J. Long, for whose department the grader was purchased, said a check had been made of all equip- ment and that the grader sold by the successful bidder was pre-to awarding the bids and Long replied he did not talk to any bidder anytime when the city has a bid activity pending.

Owens, in a statement to prove the worth of his grader, pointed out orders received in the past several months from other cities and said his equipment was the safest ever built and exceeds the city's specifications. He said he did not mind losing a bid when his firm is high, but when his consideration should be given.

Owens said he can prove the claims made about the value of his machines. Long said he appreciated Owens' viewpoint but that "We purchase what he thinks is the best product at the price."

Council unanimously approved purchase of the grader then ap- proved a $7,990 bid of McClung-Logan Equipment Company for a new loader for the Street Depart- ment.

B&O Employee Burned At Work

Milton Diggins, 47, of 218 Car- roll Street, was burned about the face and arms in an accident at the B&O Railway here early Sat- urday morning.

Diggins was admitted to Me- morial Hospital about 2:15 a. m. Attaches there said his condition is good and he is "up and a- round." Diggins is listed as a boiler fireman for the B&O.

Cost Set On Two Street Jobs

The Mayor and Council yester- day accepted two more cost re- ports under the Street Department resurfacing program which is be- ing shared 50-50 with property owners.

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum listed costs for Frederick Street, between Henderson and Decatur Street; and for Oldtown Road, from Maryland Avenue to Grand Avenue.

The Frederick Street resurfacing will cost the property owner and city $1.115 per lineal foot each, based on a total cost of $1,621.34 for the 727.6 lineal feet. The Oldtown Road project will cost $1.175 per lineal foot each based on total cost of $2,360.10 for the 1,004.3 lineal feet.

In other action yesterday, council accepted the bid of Valley Structural Painters, Inc., Harris- burg, Va., for cleaning and re- painting the interior and exterior of the North End Water tank. The amount is $2,760.

The color of the tank brought a question from C. Erich Roeder, 908 Frost Avenue, who asked if it could not be painted green instead of the present checker- board design which, he said, is detracting. City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum said the accepted color is aluminum and that is the color the North End tank will be.

Council accepted the bid of Hout Construction Company in the amount of $2,975 for the reloca- tion of Brinker's Run and instal- lation of concrete pipe beneath Fourth Street.

Payment of $10,255 to Orrie Sen- sabaugh, contractor, was ordered representing partial payment for sewer and otherwise improv- ing portions of Second Street, Blackiston Avenue and Fourth Street.

Van Named To New Post

James E. Van, a veteran of almost 32 years in the Cumberland Police Department, has been named to the newly-created post of captain of detectives by the Mayor and Council.

The order elevating Van from acting captain to captain was introduced by Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming and passed unanimously by council. It is effective as of October 1.

Van has been a lieutenant since 1936 and was hired by the department November 30, 1928. He was named acting captain-detectives July 1.

The action naming Van followed council approval of a change in a city ordinance establishing the rank of captain and allowing for the appointment of such lieutenants in the department as hereafter authorized by the Mayor and Council. It is further provided that the Chief of Police shall make assignments to shifts and duties of lieutenants subject to approval of the commissioner of police.

In other personnel affecting Fleming's departments, council accepted the resignation of Frederick A. Pfeiffer, Fire Department chauffeur, effective yesterday. Pfeiffer has accepted employment at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

Richard F. Smith was named probationary pipeman Class 8 in the Fire Department effective October 11, and the status of Charles W. Kiser was changed from temporary to probationary pipeman, Class 8, in the Fire Department, effective October 11.

HOLLYWOOD

By Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Such happy pleasant news that Gene Tierney is returning to 20th Century-Fox the last week in October to report to Jerry Wald for "Return to Peyton Place." Gene is so completely recovered, she recently finished a TV show, and is eager to go back to work. She'll play the role of Constance, which was Lana Turner's part in the first "Peyton Place," and Jose Ferrer is set to direct.

Gene is living in Houston, and happily married to Howard Lee, former husband of Hedy Lamarr. She is wise to know that part of her therapy is to keep busy, and she's very grateful to 20th which has kept her on the payroll through her several years of illness.

"Away From Home," the new Rona Jaffe book which I announced last week had been bought by MGM, is intended for Maria Schell. Eddie Grainger has been named as producer by Sol Siegel and the very first adaptation written will be sent to Maria.

The story is about three American married couples living in Brazil with an accent on sex. The first Jaffe book, "The Best of Everything," had plenty of sex, with a capital "S."

Maria has asked for a modern lighter story and no more costume pictures for a spell — and this seems to be it.

We will get Italian lovers double voltage now that Vic Damone co-stars with Rossano Brazzi in "Il Brigante" starting in Rome right after New Year's. This means that Vic will be winging to Italy for the story of the Italian war in the 1850s to take on the dramatic role of a soldier — with nary a song to sing.

1961 looms bright and happily for Vic. He seems to have put out the big torch he carried so long for Pier Angeli. And since "Hell To Eternity" he has many movie offers.

Of course, he's still a big man in the record and nightclub fields, currently jamming them in the Flamingo.

The mother of the Iwo Jima hero, Ira Hayes, Mrs. Nancy Hayes, played an extra in "The Sixth Man" when it was on location on the Pima Indian reservation near Phoenix. Mrs. Hayes had become a recluse after the TV show which starkly depicted the Indian hero, whose tragic death from alcoholism was not generally known until the TV show. She was ashamed of the way her son's alcoholic problems had been presented. However the movie version of Ira's life, now being directed by Delbert Mann, is giving Ira a break.

It was Tony Curtis, who plays Hayes, who suggested the mother being given the role.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Take "Thirty" For Yourself

You deserve thirty minutes all your own every day — but take them in the morning, when they'll do you the most good. Rise half an hour earlier — and discover what a lift you'll give your entire day.

If you're the type who finds it hard to come alive in the morning, that thirty-minute head start will provide the time you need to awaken gradually without jolting, the way you like to do. Even with your eyes at half-mast, you can wash your face, shower, and dress yourself and your hair. Then, by the time the rest of the family is up-and-at-you, you'll be eyes-open ready, in spite of yourself.

On the other hand, if you're ordinarily bright-eyed and alert in the a.m., that early half hour will find you at your brightest, able to accomplish a great deal, alone and uninterrupted. You may want to spend your thirty minutes in those grooming "extras" that you are too sleepy to administer at bedtime — a quick hair set, a manicure, a facial.

Early birds might beat their own overcrowded schedule with a little sewing or mending. They might want to write a long-delayed letter, scribble a shopping list, or prepare the school lunches for their sleeping brood. They might just decide to settle themselves for a comfortable half-hour of reading . . . pure pleasure.

Most women try to cram a little extra time into their day . . . and inevitably they tack it on at the wrong end, the evening. They postpone the rest they need so much by forcing their flagging energy to perform "just one more chore" . . . which would probably take just half the time with fresh vitality the following day.

Even if they stay up later at night just to sit and relax, they are pushing themselves to the point where they are "too sleepy to go to bed." It's impossible to relax when one is overtired. This late-evening loafing is actually suspension in a half-comatose state, and neither mind nor body is geared to "re-create" itself, as the word recreation suggests.

So, get your sleep at the proper hour . . . and set your alarm clock thirty minutes ahead, if you really want some time to yourself. It will take the tension out of morning preparations for the entire family and keep you and them from running late, as usual.

But, best of all, if you give those thirty minutes to yourself to spend as you please, it will take the tension out of you.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm in the process of witnessing a ridiculous example of dieting—starvation would be more accurate.

My niece, who is 20 years of age, came to spend a few weeks with me. She is 5'6" and weighs about 100 pounds. She's still dieting so she can be "slim like the models."

Yesterday for breakfast she had a piece of dry toast and a Coke. For lunch she pecked away at a vegetable salad. An afternoon snack consisted of another Coke. For dinner she ate nothing — just smoked a few cigarettes and had a cup of black coffee.

I tried to tell her that malnutrition could lead to serious illness but she says the models in the ads look pretty healthy to her. Am I old-fashioned as she says?—CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Your young relative will never be an old relative if she doesn't cut out the foolishness.

Every diet should be supervised by a doctor. No doctor would O.K. the nonsensical starvation to which this girl is subjecting herself.

There is nothing feminine or attractive about these hollow-eyed, amaciated flagpoles with hair. They look as if they can't afford a square meal.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In a recent column you said "Many men who are successful in business have their wives to thank."

I'm a man who owes my success to my wife and I'm not ashamed to admit it. There's an unusual twist to my success story, however, and I hope you'll print it so my dear wife can get all the glory due her.

The woman I married turned out to be a nagging, overbearing shrew. No conversation out of her—just orders or complaints. It got so I hated to go home after work so I fell into the habit of staying at my office until 11 and 12 o'clock almost every night.

When a man puts in 14 hours a day at his business, he's bound to amount to something. Please print this letter because I'd like my wife to know I owe it all to her.—BIG WHEEL

DEAR WHEEL: Very generous of you to want to give your wife ALL the credit, but I think you deserve part of it, both for your red-hot business success and for the miserable flop on the home-front.

Some men who don't want to go home, don't want to stay at work either, so they go prowling around looking for trouble—and usually find it. At least you stayed at your desk.

Allow me to present you with a carnation for your success at the office—and a spray of ragweed for your failure at home.

DEAR ANN: I'm only 17 and I feel like 100. My boy friend who is 20 has been acting very strange. He lost his job three months ago and won't look for another one. He shows up in new clothes and refuses to tell me how he can afford such nice things.

Yesterday he brought me a wristwatch with real diamonds in it. He goes with a fast crowd and I'm afraid they're up to no good. My father thinks I could report him to the police but I could never do that. Please advise me.—KIM

DEAR KIM: Don't call the police, but stop seeing the fellow at once or the police may call you. And return the diamond watch. You know very well he didn't buy it.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Purple Passions In Carthage

I haven't seen a movie heroine choose death to dishonor in a long, long time. Come to think of it, I've never seen it. Even when I was a kid that was considered pretty corny stuff. But, by George, there it was on "Rivak the Barbarian" the other night.

"Dance, little wildcat," said the villain with a leer that has not been seen in acting circles since the mauve decade. All this was taking place on a galley bound for Carthage. Well, sir, she danced for the lustful fellow but when he tried to get her to go below for hanky panky, she kissed her brother—Jack Palance, lashed to the bulkheads, snarling and vowing vengeance—and jumped into the sea.

All this was part of a special that was to have been a series called "The Barbarians." NBC, after spending about a zillion dollars on it, abandoned the whole thing. Pity. It was quite funny. The orgies were hilarious. (Know what they do at orgies, huh? They kiss girls. Lying down. Seen it with my own eyes.) And the dialogue. Delicious. "Rivak kisses the foot of no one—least of all that of a Carthaginian cat." Well spoken, I exclaimed.

I don't know why this seemed so ridiculous on the little screen. After all, Cecil B. DeMille made a fortune out of this kind of malarkey. Of course, you might argue that Cecil B. did better malarkey but, frankly, I don't believe it. I think he did worse malarkey. I think malarkey to be viable at all must be as unabashedly preposterous as possible. Cecil B. DeMille had a genius for it.

Ah, well. To pass on to other matters, Perry Como returned for his sixth season the other night with a very classy show. Goodman Ace was back as head writer and right away the show took on a polish, a finish, and a shape that it didn't have last season. But, of course, the star of the show is still very much Mr. Como who is singing better than ever, moving even more easily from stool to guest star to center stage.

As he gets older and more assured, Mr. Como requires less and less assistance from his surroundings. He was at his most effective singing all by himself with a lectern in front of him, a stool under him, more or less ignoring the cameras and the studio audience, much like a fellow in a shower. Not that he didn't have distinguished assistance. Ethel Merman was there to shatter a glass. It was a very amusing conceit to try her piercing larynx on "Prisoner of Love." Mr. Como's very own song, while he endeavored to sing "I've Got Rhythm." (I can't hear you from here," complained Miss Merman, who was sitting next to him.)

There were others. Shelley Berman, for example, who wasn't very funny. I'm a great Shelley Berman fan but he just didn't have it that night. Also aboard, bless us every one, were Frankie Avalon and Fabian. The best thing I can say about this bit is that it was painless, an enormous surprise. Either they're getting more grown up or I'm getting younger. Or maybe it was because they didn't let them sing very much.

Mr. Como's shows are renowned for their openings and for their closings, which are monstrously ingenious, and this opening and this closing were wonderfully clever mixtures of tape and film. The closing was a duet with Como in his theater and Ethel Merman driving in a taxicab to the Imperial Theater. Great.

Directly following Mr. Como came the man he admittedly patterns himself after, that aging gentleman of song, Bing Crosby. The trouble here is that Mr. Crosby can't sing very well any more. Great style, marvelous technique. But no voice to speak of. He reminds me of Dizzy Dean trying to pitch—on sheer cunning and experience—after his arm had gone. Otherwise, it was a pleasant show. Crosby did "Mississippi Mud" with his boys, Dennis, Philip, and Lindsay, a great sentimental number. An old radio bit with Johnny Mercer, including "In Behalf of the Visiting Firemen," was great fun.

Best of all was Rosemary Clooney. I think this girl sings better than anyone, male or female (now that Mr. Sinatra seems to have retired) and I wish we'd hear more of her. She only had one song all by herself, and it wasn't enough.

Red Tape Delays Killing Of Weeds

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (UPI)—The city of Martinsburg wants to get rid of some weeds near the local airport, but cold weather may take care of the problem before they get the red tape unraveled.

City council decided to hire a man to cut the weeds. But the city engineer threw a wrench in the works.

He said the proposal had to be submitted in triplicate, when the airport advisory committee would have to approve it after first conferring with the lessee of the airport. The weeds look safe for awhile.

W. Va. Governor Underwood Signs Bills Defends Cost On Medical Care

Demo Legislators Did Not Hike Them

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. Cecil H. Underwood said Monday there apparently was nothing wrong with the cost of a medical care program for the aged he submitted to a special session of the Legislature last week.

Underwood, noting the figures he gave the lawmakers had been challenged by U. S. Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., pointed to the fact the lawmakers gave him exactly what he asked.

"If the Democratic party leadership believed Randolph's charge, they should have increased the appropriation," Underwood said. "It is understandable that Sen. Randolph is unfamiliar with West Virginia's experience in the costs which he quoted."

Randolph said he felt the program outlined by the governor could cost the state $7.1 million for the next nine months. Underwood's plan was to spend $2.1 million.

Underwood explained the costs were based upon projections of the average payments for medical care to the aged on present Department of Public Assistance rolls.

W. Va. Water Talks Planned

DAVIS, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Water Resources Commission will open a two-day meeting Friday at nearby Blackwater Falls State Park.

Executive Secretary Bern Wright said the commission will spend the first day touring strip mining operations in the Tucker County area.

On Wednesday, it will review progress reports on anti-pollution construction at Oceana, Wyoming County, and Athens, Mercer County.

The commission also is scheduled to continue a hearing on the need for improvements in Martinsburg's sewage disposal system and to receive reports on coal washery waste programs in the Guyandotte and Tug River basins.

SRCT To Open Road Bids

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Road Commission will open bids Tuesday on five highway projects expected to cost $2 to $3 million.

Four of the projects are on Interstate 64 in Cabell County, three of them bridges and one a 2.2-mile grading job. The other project is for resurfacing 7.4 miles of Secondary 21 from Brandyville to the Navy astronomy center at Sugar Grove, Pendleton County.

The federal government will foot the entire cost of the astronomy center road.

Neely Assails Demo Machine In West Va.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va. (UPI)—Harold E. Neely, Republican gubernatorial candidate, said Monday "West Virginia cannot afford to permit the old Democratic statehouse machine to return to power."

During previous Democratic administrations, Neely said "we saw our road system steadily deteriorate...we saw our state institutions regress...we saw the emergence of a vicious Democratic statehouse machine..."

"The obstructionist tactics employed by Democratic leaders, in and out of the Legislature, to sabotage Gov. Cecil H. Underwood's program, offer abundant proof that the present leaders of the Democratic Party are interested only in returning to power," he said.

"We have on the Republican ticket in this election men who are dedicated to the interests of West Virginia, who are concerned

Carrier Hangs Up On Crossing

Crews began work yesterday on the Baltimore Street improvement project. Shortly after they quit for the day the "hump," which is to be eliminated by the project, claimed another victim.

A northbound auto transport truck hung up on the Western Maryland crossing in late afternoon. Railway crews helped send it on its way.

Police said a similar truck using the crossing Sunday dragged on the hump and cut deep gashes into the blacktop but kept going due to its speed.

The trouble will be cleared up during the construction as blacktop is used to fill in low spots in the hump.

Huge Spending Draws Blast At GOP Rally

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A Treasury Department official Monday told a Republican rally Democrats "believe that economic growth should be forced through government spending."

David A. Lindsay, general counsel of the federal agency said Republicans, on the other hand, believe in a growth "not warped by inflation or falsified by sharply rising costs and prices."

"It is not a crash program of forced growth to be achieved by federal expenditures in 90 days," he said. "Our approach is human, not statistical...our programs are practical, not illusory."

Addressing the Kanawha County Young Republican Club meeting, Lindsay said Democrats "complain about the present so-called 'tight money' policies of the Eisenhower administration." "Fiscal discipline and monetary discipline, the indispensable pillars of financial integrity, are apparently abhorrent to them," Lindsay said.

"We refuse to surrender to the false doctrines of those who would distort our economy and debase our currency in order to achieve any kind of magic formula growth at any price," he added.

Mailed Payments Boost Collections

The City of Cumberland took in some $51,000 of 1960 taxes yesterday.

The total represented chiefly mailed payments but was the biggest since taxes began to come in late last month.

Since October 24 will be the last day to make interest-free payments, City Hall staffers anticipate that heavy collections will be made during the next two weeks.

The city tax office is being opened at 8 a. m., an hour earlier than usual, for the benefit of taxpayers who work during its regular schedule.

W. Va. Court To Review Preston Case

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Supreme Court Monday agreed, in effect, to decide whether osteopathic physicians are entitled to practice in West Virginia hospitals subsidized with public funds.

The court unanimously agreed to docket for its January term a case certified from Preston County where Dr. Frank A. Wallington of Bruceton Mills brought legal action after being denied the right to practice in Preston Memorial Hospital at Kingwood.

Circuit Judge Melvin C. Snyder sustained the hospital's trustees in revoking Wallington's previously granted privilege, but the judge forwarded his decision to the high court for final determination.

Wallington and other osteopaths have argued that they are licensed by the state, just as medical doctors, and that they have just as much right as their counterparts to practice in hospitals built or supported with public funds.

The medical profession for years has fought the osteopaths' demand for "equal rights."

W. Va. Police Head Released In $500 Bond

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia State Police Supt. Hazen H. Fair will appear in Kanawha County Intermediate Court Oct. 21 to enter a plea to a false swearing indictment.

Fair Monday posted $500 bond pending his appearance next week. Fair refused to answer any questions of newsmen and referred them to his attorney, former Charleston Mayor D. Boone Dawson.

The Kanawha County grand jury returned the indictment last Friday. It grew out of alleged thefts in the motor vehicles inspection bureau of the State Police department.

Kanawha County Prosecutor Charles Walker said Fair denied before the jury that he was told one of the agency's civilian employees she would not be prosecuted if money she allegedly took was returned.

Three other witnesses, two State Police officers and a former officer, contradicted Fair's testimony. Walker claimed that Fair "followed the policy of allowing someone who took money to pay it back to avoid unfavorable publicity for the administration."

Goss Is Jailed In Default Of Fines

James H. Goss, city, yesterday was committed to Allegany County Jail for 30 days in default of fines imposed on two motor vehicle violations.

Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt found Goss guilty of operating a motor vehicle on a revoked license and for failing to appear for a scheduled trial.

Goss was fined $100 on the first charge and $25 on the second count. Magistrate Weatherholt then ordered him committed to jail for 30 days in default of the $100 fine and 25 days in default of the $25 fine.

However, Magistrate Weatherholt ruled the sentences may run concurrently.

Goss was arrested by Tfc. Willis E. Foreman of the State Police on August 27 and the original trial was set September 8.

W. Va. Traffic Deaths Climb

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia's highway traffic fatality toll jumped to 262 Monday after six deaths during the past week end. This compares to 309 killed during the corresponding period last year.

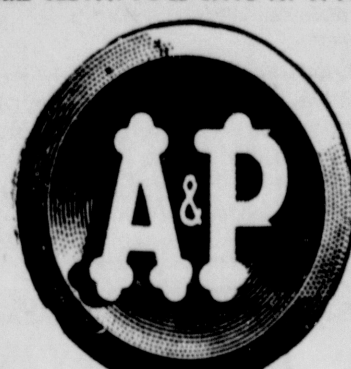

The latest death was James R.

Franklin, 29, of Big Sandy, McDowell County. His body was found in the wreckage of his car at the foot of an embankment near Davy, McDowell County, late Sunday night.

DeGaulle's Atomic Policy Debated

Today's debate in the French Assembly on the De Gaulle atomic policy is in a sense a vortex, drawing toward its center discontented French politicians of all political colorations — and with a considerable variety of reasons for their discontent. The President's proposal to build a nuclear striking force within five years is, of course, unpopular in many quarters in its own right. And for good cause.

It will be expensive, although the down payment, as measured by the increase in military expenditures in the 1961 budget recently presented to Parliament, is a good deal less than had been expected. But to build the air arm necessary to deliver the bomb — in other words, to create a truly valid nuclear deterrent — would be enormously costly. And the National Assembly's defense committee has questioned whether such a force could not be developed in cooperation with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization as lesser expense.

Then, too, opponents fear acceleration of a trend toward independence from NATO. Isolation in Europe, the antithesis of the desires of France's "Europeans," is a corollary danger.

The NATO Allies, including the United States, will listen intently to the French debate. De Gaulle on September 28 agreed to put a token contingent of the French Air Force — units stationed on the German border and in West Germany — under Gen. Lauris Norstad, NATO supreme commander. But U. S. nuclear warheads still may not be stationed in France without French control — which U. S. law forbids.

And De Gaulle still wants to expand NATO's scope and create for it an American, British, and French directorate, at the same time favoring national forces under unified command rather than real integration. The De Gaulle politique de grandeur was never clearer than in his press conference statement of September 5: "Obviously France cannot leave her own destiny and even her own life to the discretion of others."

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

How Much Can We Take?

Every day I turn on the radio while I am working and listen with one ear by the hour to the speeches that emanate in the United Nations. On and on, the interpreters drone. Usually, it is repetitious. The speakers, each year, say the same thing endlessly. The delegates sit and listen. They plug listening instruments into their ears and hear the talk. It must be very tiresome for them.

For instance, I am at this moment listening to a female voice which is speaking about China. The female voice is, of course, interpreting a speech that is being spoken by a Russian or White Russian or Ukrainian — I can't recall — delegate who is yapping away endlessly to prove that the United States is the lowest cad among nations.

The neutralists are disappointed that they have not succeeded in forcing Eisenhower to meet with Khrushchev, but what is surprising is that some of our dependents as well as allies wanted Eisenhower to meet with Khrushchev. Their theory is that Khrushchev never means the insults and imprecations he shouts at folks. It is just his way. Therefore Eisenhower should not have been so offended by Khrushchev's conduct in Paris or at the United Nations.

Many of the nations that depend upon the United States for their existence were quite taken with Nehru's proposal to have Eisenhower meet with Khrushchev. Nehru himself fears Red China so much that any proposal for what is euphemistically called a lessening of tension is regarded by him as a protection. But what will he do when Red China makes the next move against India?

So one listens to the great of the world, the men who have been thrown up by revolutions, by civil wars, by so-called liberations. New faces, new personalities, new voices appear and all make speeches. And then they rise to answer attacks and it is always the same things that they say.

What is novel is the long-windedness of the new-style speakers. Their speeches are endless and the translations are endless. Now that the United Nations has nearly doubled its membership, one wonders what will happen if each of the 98 members wants to talk four hours each on each subject.

The great statesmen of the world will be permanently stationed in New York, as members of Congress now become permanent residents of Washington. It is, for instance, astonishing that Khrushchev can afford to spend so much time in New York. Apparently, Moscow can get along without him. If one looks at his traveling itinerary for 1960, Khrushchev has not been in Moscow very much. Of course, there are swift means of communications. Nevertheless, one is not a little astonished that he can be away from the seat of his particular activities for weeks on end. He is likely to be in New York for a period of five or six weeks. He must feel very secure about his own political situation. Stalin never dared to travel. He went to Teheran in Iran and to Potsdam in Germany, but these places were close to his home base. Now Khrushchev goes anywhere. But who minds the store while he is away?

Khrushchev loves to talk and he will talk to almost anybody. I have watched him take a walk in front of the Soviet Embassy on Park Avenue in New York. He walks back and forth and talks. He likes to show his affection by giving a stranger a bear hug. He shakes hands. He talks. The police who follow him listen to his talk. In New York, there are many who understand Khrushchev's Russian with its heavy Ukrainian accent.

When the delegates are not making speeches, they are talking to each other. There are constant conferences and negotiations. Talk about smoke-filled rooms at national conventions! These fellows can have a conference at the drop of a cigaret and then there is more talk. It never stops.

This is the new diplomacy. It is a design for talking war to death. The theory is that if men talk, whatever they say to each other, they do not fight. So Khrushchev bangs desks, interrupts speakers, uses vulgar language. But there is no war. It is all like a thunderstorm without rain. Noise — excitement — yelling — but what happens? We prepare for the next session of talk. It is a way of life.

Nixon Pulls Even In Second Round Of TV Ordeal

WASHINGTON

Vice-President Richard M. Nixon pulled even with Sen. John F. Kennedy in the second round of their joint ordeal-by-television. Such was this reporter's opinion, at any rate, for what it may be worth.

It is probably not worth much, since this reporter also judged the first round was a draw. As it turned out, this was a minority view. The majority view of the first round was expressed by the numerous Republican leaders who bombarded the Vice President with dire warnings that he had "looked awful" and had "sounded like Tom Dewey."

Maybe, therefore, the opinion given above underestimates Nixon's second-round performance, and maybe it underestimates Kennedy's. In any case the most important and immediate result of the second round was a result helpful to Nixon. The signs of panic, the sense of slump, have vanished from the Nixon camp.

Despite the huge crowds that have turned out to hear the Vice-President in the days just before the debate, there were plentiful signs of incipient panic in this period. There was a sharp, quite open disagreement about the kind of campaign tactics that Nixon ought to employ. There was a bombardment of the Nixon safari by the Republican leaders already mentioned. There was open glumness and lack of self-confidence.

Above all, there were the extraordinary, openly panicky scenes enacted in Washington in preparation for the second television show. Grandees of the Republican Party spent days arguing about the technicalities of lighting, the effects of different kinds of backdrop, and the drawbacks and advantages of different kinds of pancake make-up.

Mike was 16, sweet on the girls, and cleaner and more particular than most teen-agers. He was going to a school dance but four days prior to the affair, a pimple blossomed on his nose. He tinkered with it breaking the old rule, "Never squeeze a pimple on the face, especially when located above the mouth."

The young man developed fever and intense pain behind the right eye on Thursday night before the dance. The tissues around the eye became red and swollen and he was unable to move the eyeball. He looked miserable and suffered from nausea.

The family physician took one look and called the hospital for a room. The remnants of the pimple were still there and Mike admitted squeezing it prior to getting ill.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A major at a draft camp discovered two squads of rookies huddled anxiously around a cave-in of a big trench. "Does your sergeant know this trench has collapsed?" demanded the major. "If he doesn't," answered one rookie, "we're sure gonna tell him when we dig him out!"

"Most of the successful men in Wall Street," points out "Elder Statesman" Bernard Baruch, "are men who do more listening than talking. If you choose your company carefully, it's worth listening to what they have to say. You don't have to blow out the other fellow's light to let your own shine."

A bridegroom followed his tootsie-pie into the shiny new kitchenette. "What is my snookums

Nothing quite like this has ever been seen before in American politics.

In the outcome, the lighting was kinder to the Vice-President, and his make-up, whatever it was, proved more successful. Though it sounds silly to say so, it is a fortunate thing, healthy for the country, that the Vice-President looked better the second time than he did the first. For the discussion of Nixon's wan appearance during the first debate had reached the stage of being discreditable and ridiculous.

To date, in truth, a good deal of the public and private comment on this campaign has suggested that presidential candidates are like dogfood. The packaging has got all the attention;

By Joseph Alsop

the contents of the packages far too little. The "image" has been exalted, the program downgraded. So it is time for somebody or other to cry "Avaunt," or even shout, "Go to the devil," to the "image" — merchants who have seeped into American politics from Madison Avenue.

It was only just that the physical aspect of the Nixon "image" was improved, by such vast efforts and after such lengthy debate, for his television appearance on Friday night. For Nixon has been the chief victim of the "image" theory of politics. Furthermore, the effort to present a politically saleable "image" has done worse things to him than

It is possible—perhaps even probable—that the real motive behind the gathering of Iron Curtain chiefs such as Khrushchev of Russia, Tito of Yugoslavia, Kadar of Hungary and the others, plus the unprecedented presence of Red-oriented countries like Castro of Cuba and Nasser of Egypt — may be to strengthen the hand of Nikita Khrushchev in the upcoming power struggle with Red China. With every passing month, it becomes more and more evident that Red China is the Frankenstein's monster created by the Soviet Union. The monster is growing more and more restive and is now challenging its master for leadership of the Communist world. Upon the outcome may rest the chances for world peace. If the Red Chinese win, the results could be appalling.

The Red Chinese were, in the often-stated opinion of the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, a "far greater" threat to world peace than the Russians. "The Chinese Communists are dizzy with success," Dulles stated over and over again on numerous public occasions.

ting ill. He developed septic thrombosis of the large blood passageway of the brain (cavernous sinus). This condition frequently is fatal and a high price to pay for squeezing boils or pimples on the face or pulling hairs out of the nose.

Infections on this part of the face are serious because of a peculiar anatomical arrangement. All the blood in this area drains into the cavernous sinus of the brain before it joins the regular circulation and is returned to the heart.

In Mike's case, some of the capillaries surrounding the pimple were damaged and pus entered the blood stream and was caught in the cavernous sinus a few seconds later. The germs set up housekeeping, and within 48 hours a new infection was brewing in his brain.

Antibiotics saved his life, only because the condition was recognized early and treatment started promptly.

Yes. They may be strained; try listening instead of speaking. The symptoms may stem from talking too much or from infection or tumor. Have your throat and larynx examined to find out the cause.

Yes. Many victims of this disease have recovered completely.

REPLY

No. Ulcer on a leg may be due to a varicose vein or to other causes such as hardening of the arteries. Finding and treating the cause is much more effective than applying an ointment unless infection coexists. Temporary re-

State Department Letter Admits Political Timing Of U.N. Session

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The State Department is sitting on a letter to Sen. Ken Keating, New York Republican, which would cause some real fireworks if ever released. So far no one has been able to pry it loose — for understandable political reasons.

The letter admits that the State Department "saw very definite advantages" in going ahead with the present session of the UN General Assembly despite the fact that the United States would be engaged in an election campaign.

The political dynamite behind the letter is twofold:

1. In the two previous Presidential elections, 1952 and 1956, the State Department recommended postponing the UN Assembly for fear foreign policy would get mixed up in the Presidential campaign. It wanted to preserve the bipartisan foreign policy.

2. Vice President Nixon was consulted before the decision was made to proceed with the current UN session simultaneous with the election. He concurred.

This cuts the ground out from under his demand that Kennedy cut off his attacks on Eisenhower and U. S. policy while Khrushchev is also criticizing the United States at the United Nations.

Nixon Relished Mr. K's Visit

The State Department's carefully guarded letter has another possible significance. Dated August 16, it was written one week after President Eisenhower surprised the world by indicating at a press conference that he might meet and talk with Premier Khrushchev if Mr. K came to New York in September.

The statement flabbergasted almost everyone, especially Secretary of State Herter who had written the President a memo in advance of the press conference advising that if Ike did meet Khrushchev on top of all the recent Moscow criticism, it would be interpreted around the world as a sign of weakness.

However, Ike had also received word from Nixon suggesting that he not close the door to Khrushchev. Nixon had in mind the possibility that he personally might participate in the UN debate and stage another encounter with Khrushchev. This he knew would win votes. So acting on Nixon's suggestion the President surprisingly did not discourage Khrushchev's visit.

In other words, instead of keeping foreign affairs out of politics in order to preserve the bipartisan policy, a deliberate effort was made to inject foreign affairs into politics.

It was one week later that Assistant Secretary of State William Macomber Jr. wrote the letter to Senator Keating. Senator Lyndon Johnson having got wind of the letter, asked the State Department for a copy. He got turned down cold.

However, this column has learned that the Assistant Secretary of State informed Senator Keating:

"The possibility of postponement (of the UN session) was carefully considered early this summer by the Department in consultation with Ambassador Lodge (now Nixon's running mate). Neither the Department nor Ambassador Lodge saw any serious risks to the United States interests in proceeding on schedule."

The State Department further stated that it saw "very definite advantages" for going ahead with the meeting, but did not explain what these advantages were.

Business Worries

By Leslie Gould

The three major concerns of the nation's leading business enterprises — 1.225 to be exact — are:

1. The cost-price squeeze.
2. Competition from foreign goods, and
3. The excessive power of the unions.

Contrary to a general public impression, they are not particularly concerned about:

The November election. Free enterprise being preserved. Nor about getting additional capital or financing.

Nor are they concerned about excess plant capacity nor domestic competition.

Nor are they particularly concerned about government spending, although they are worried about taxes.

Dun & Bradstreet — the nationwide credit rating organization — got this information from a just completed survey by its reporting staff. The survey was made two weeks ago.

Leading business concerns in 147 cities across the country were contacted for their answers on what the top management felt was the most important single issue facing American business at this time and over the next five years. Also, what they considered the most important action the new administration should take to promote the economy. A third question was where these companies looked for the biggest opportunities.

The number of replies — 1,225 — is high, and that figure breaks down into 760 manufacturers, 220 wholesalers, 85 retailers and 160 in the service industries.

Of the manufacturers, 27 per cent put the "profit-squeeze" as the No. 1 concern, as did 23.5 per cent of the retailers. Nearly 23 per cent of all the companies felt so.

Next was foreign competition, with 16.4 per cent of the manufacturers ranking this as the major concern, and of all the companies 13.3 per cent felt so. Of the manufacturers, 8.9 per cent believed "excessive power of the unions" was the main problem, and for all the concerns 9.4 per cent rated this that way.

Actually the first three are related. The profit-squeeze, which is the main factor in the stock market's sharp decline, is the result of spiraling wages and fringe benefits and competition, particularly that from foreign low labor cost countries.

Taxes were fifth, with 7.3 per cent of the manufacturers putting them as the No. 1 issue facing business, and 8.8 per cent for all companies. Inflation, which has been one of the big threats, ranked sixth, with only 7.8 per cent of the manufacturers and 7.7 per cent of all concerns putting this first.

A surprise is that only 3.6 per cent of the manufacturers and less than 3 per cent of all companies see a recession and falling sales as the most current issue. None of the manufacturers polled thought domestic competition was an issue and only 2.2 per cent thought excessive competition was a problem.

The biggest surprise was the lack of concern of the forthcoming election. Only 2.5 per cent of the manufacturers and 2.6 per cent of all companies surveys were concerned.

Scrappy Pirates Take Series Lead Over Yankees, 5-2

Elroy Face Saves Game For Haddix

Second Stellar Relief Job Puts One Game Ahead

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP)—Elroy Face, the ace of the Pittsburgh bullpen, saved Harvey Haddix Monday as the scrappy Pirates went one-up on the New York Yankees with a 5-2 victory in the fifth World Series game.

It was the second straight sparkling relief job by Face in Pittsburgh's gallant comeback of two triumphs after a pair of humiliating defeats in the first three games.

The Pirates thus head home to Forbes Field to finish the series with a 3-2 edge in games, needing only one more to nail down their first world championship since 1925. After Tuesday's open date, the series will resume Wednesday. If a seventh game is necessary, it will be played at Pittsburgh Thursday.

Haddix, a 35-year-old left-hander who specializes in breaking pitches, struggled in the early innings but allowed only three hits going to the seventh.

When Tony Kubek and pinch hitter Hector Lopez each singled with one out in the seventh, Manager Danny Murtaugh came to the mound. After a few words with Haddix, Danny made a knee high sign with his right hand, indicating to the bullpen that Face, the man with the low fork ball, was wanted.

Forces Lopez
Little Elroy made Gil McDougald force Lopez at second. He almost was out of the inning with a double play but Bill Mazeroski's throw to first pulled Dick Stuart off the bag. It didn't matter for Face then struck out Roger Maris.

Pittsburgh greeted Yankee starter Art Ditmar like a long lost cousin with three runs in the second inning. The Bucs had knocked out the Yanks' top winner in the first inning in Wednesday's opener. This time they were helped by some sloppy fielding.

Dick Stuart's single and Smokey Burgess' double to the right field corner put men on second and third with one out. Gino Cimoli, who had forced Stuart, scored easily on Don Hoak's slow bounce to Kubek and when McDougald dropped Kubek's throw, trying to get Burgess at third. All hands were safe.

Bill Mazeroski came through with a double to left that drove in both Burgess and Hoak, who had taken second on McDougald error.

Gets Side Out
Luis Arroyo, the chunky senior from Puerto Rico, finally got the side out in the second but ran into heavy weather in the third. Dick Groat's double to the left field corner and Roberto Clemente's single to left gave the Pirates another run and finished off Arroyo.

Manager Casey Stengel, who had hinted strongly Sunday night he would start Rookie Bill Stafford Monday, probably wished he had done just that. Stafford, a 22-year-old right-hander brought up from the Richmond farm in mid-August, pitched five shutout innings. He allowed only three hits.

Pittsburgh picked Ryne Duren, fourth Yank pitcher, for its final run in the ninth. Smokey Burgess singled to left and took second when Bob Cerv fumbled the ball. Joe Christopher ran for the slow-footed Burgess and moved to third on a wild pitch. Hoak sent him racing home with a single to center.

Haddix gave up one run in the second when Howard doubled off the right field wall, took third on an infield out and scored while Kubek was grounding out to Stuart on a ball that hit first base and bounced up into Stuart's hands.

Yanks Get Homer
The Yanks, who had hit seven homers in four previous games while piling up a .361 team batting average, had their homer Monday. Roger Maris slammed a Haddix pitch into the upper deck in right field with nobody on in the third. It was Maris' second homer of the series.

Hoak continued to play heads up ball in the field. He made a fine bare-handed grab of McDougald's bunt leading off in the first and grabbed Bobby Richardson's line drive opening the seventh.

Murtaugh said right-hander Bob Friend, who was taken out early in the 16-3 Yankee romp in the second game, would be his pitcher in the sixth game. He said Haddix was not tired but had trouble all year going more than seven innings.

Murtaugh said the liner that Richardson hit at Hoak could have been a turning point. "I don't see how Don even saw the ball," he said. The catch became more important when Kubek and Lopez followed with singles.

Stengel said his sixth game pitcher would be either right-hander Bob Turley, winner of the second game, or left-hander Whitey Ford, winner of the third.

"If we had won today, it would have been Turley and then Ford," said Stengel. "I have two matters

KEY PLAY IN PIRATES' RALLY—Here is the third base play in the second inning of the fifth World Series game yesterday at Yankee Stadium in which Pittsburgh catcher Smokey Burgess slid into third base and was safe when Gil McDougald let ball get away from him. The play was instrumental in the Pirates' three-run rally which enabled them to take a 3-2 lead in the series with the New York Yankees. Play started when Yankee shortstop Tony Kubek fielded Don Hoak's grounder. Kubek flipped to McDougald who dropped throw. Burgess starts slide, upper left, as McDougald reaches for ball. Ball is dropped as McDougald tags Burgess, top right. Ball bounces away as Burgess slides into bag, bottom left, and McDougald starts to chase ball, bottom right. Umpire Nestor Chylak calls Burgess safe. Hoak took second on the error. (AP Photofax)

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—Mobile General Manager Jim Wyche said Monday the Cleveland Indians had given up their working agreement with the Bears because of the local team's refusal to use Negro players.

Hautain Invited To Run In Laurel International Nov. 11

PARIS (UPI)—Hautain, a 3-year-old horse which finished second in the Arch of Triumph race Sunday, will represent France in the Washington, D. C. International at Laurel Nov. 11, track president J. D. Schapiro announced here Monday.

Schapiro said he had first invited Puissant Chef, which won Sunday's Longchamps race but that its owner, Henry Aubert, had finally refused the invitation because the horse was tired.

"I invited Hautain and its owner Jean Stern of France has accepted," Schapiro said. The horse will have its usual jockey, Leon Flavien of France.

Schapiro said he also has invited Santa Severa, a 3-year-old Italian filly which finished fifth in the same race Sunday.

Mississippi Regains First Place In AP Football Poll

Syracuse Drops To Fourth Spot

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

Bouncing back after one rather mediocre performance, the Rebels of Mississippi stormed the heights of collegiate football this week and regained first place in the weekly Associated Press ranking poll as Syracuse dropped to fourth.

The Rebels, who lost their hold on first place when they skirted the edge of an upset against Memphis State, handed Vanderbilt a 26-0 thumping Saturday while Syracuse, the 1959 national champion, turned in a shaky but winning performance against Holy Cross, 15-6.

The result was another big upheaval in the rankings, based on the votes of an AP panel of 48 newspaper, television and radio football experts. Scoring is on the basis of 10 points for each first place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third, etc.

It was Mississippi, Iowa, Ohio State and Syracuse in that order when the returns were all in. And probably it was as much the voters' indecision as to which Big Ten team is tops as Mississippi's performance that influenced the results.

Ole Miss drew 19 of the 48 first place votes and 428 points, Iowa, an impressive 27-15 winner over Michigan State, had 17 firsts and 411 points. Ohio State, 34-7 winner over Illinois, moved up from fifth to third with 8 firsts and 335 points. Syracuse first a week ago, wound up fourth with 4 firsts and 362 points.

Those four teams split all the first place votes, and oddly, Mississippi's point total was exactly the same that Syracuse had last week with 28 first place votes.

Navy, Missouri, Baylor, Clemson, Kansas and Minnesota, in that order, completed the top 10 in the rankings.

Syracuse's tumble was something of a shocker, but not as great as those experienced by Illinois (fourth last week), Purdue (7th) and Arkansas (9th). None of those three drew even one point in the balloting. Purdue lost 24-13 to Wisconsin, which couldn't get better than 12th ranking after the victory, and Arkansas was beaten 28-14 by Baylor.

The top 20 college teams in the nation:

1. Mississippi (4-0) (19)	428
2. Iowa (3-0) (17)	411
3. Ohio State (3-0) (8)	385
4. Syracuse (3-0) (4)	362
5. Navy (4-0)	218
6. Missouri (4-0)	176
7. Baylor (3-0)	131
8. Clemson (3-0)	102
9. Kansas (3-1)	99
10. Minnesota (3-0)	82
11. Texas (3-1)	68
12. Wisconsin (3-0)	55
13. Washington (3-1)	47
14. Michigan St (1-1-1)	36
15. UCLA (1-0-1)	35
16. Alabama (2-0-1)	28
17. Oregon St (3-1)	25
18. Arizona St (4-0)	19
19. Georgia Tech (3-1)	17
20. Penn St (2-1)	16

The longest run in the National Football League last season was 83 yards by John Crow of the Chicago Cardinals. Crow's touchdown run was against Washington last Oct. 4.

Midland Council Notes Misuse Of Town Dump

Traffic Laws To Be Enforced

MIDLAND — The town council is again calling attention to the failure of some of the citizens of the community to observe regulations pertaining to use of the town dump.

It is indicated, according to Mayor Lionel D. Baker, that a number of people who are not on the garbage collection program are taking their own refuse to the dump. As a result, garbage and waste paper is being scattered indiscriminately about the area. There have been complaints about refuse and paper cluttering the adjacent ball park, he noted.

Mayor Baker said strip mine contractors are being contacted, and it is hoped that a new garbage dumping site can be in operation before winter.

Approve VHF Television

At a recent meeting, the mayor and council voiced approval of the plan to install VHF television for the community. Council voted unanimously to support the project and urge all residents with television sets to cooperate. Mayor Baker said, "any community-wide project which contributes to the education, entertainment and enjoyment of our citizens has the full support and endorsement of the council."

Aid Fire Truck Fund

Council voted to appropriate $300 toward a new pumper fire truck which was purchased last year by the Midland Fire Company. The truck was purchased from the Central Fire Truck Corp. of Manchester, Mo. at a cost of $15,000.

Work on a new railway crossing near the Midland ball park has been completed. Rails have been installed by Western Maryland Railway Company employees. Blacktop will be placed on both sides of the new crossing next spring, Mayor Baker promised.

New Signs Erected

Twenty-five-mile per hour limit signs have been erected on Paradise Street and on Chestnut Street. A STOP sign has been placed at the intersection of Dairy Lane and Lonaconing Street. Mayor Baker said council hopes the Maryland State Police will assist in enforcing speed limits and motor laws within the community, as there have been numerous complaints of fast driving, recklessness and indifference.

Letter Writing Week Is Being Publicized

ELK GARDEN, W.Va. — The 23rd annual Letter Writing Week will be celebrated in Elk Garden, W. Va., this week, it was announced today by Postmistress Maude L. Copeland.

She noted that there has been a revival of personal letter writing during the last few years. "A letter remains the most economical, longest lasting, and sincerest means of extending greetings, communicating social news, and exchanging ideas," the Postmistress said.

During Letter Writing Week, Miss Copeland suggested that individuals write at least two letters: one to a friend or relative from whom you have not heard in a long time, and the second as a reply to a friend or relative who recently wrote to you. She also urges correspondence to people in other countries as a means of promoting greater understanding among the people of different nations.

The slogan of this year's event, as indicated on more than 200,000 banners, is "Letters are Links to Friendship." The display materials appear on post office bulletin boards, and rural carrier vehicles, as well as in various schools and libraries.

Kitzmiller Firemen Win $75 At Parade

Company Attends Forest Festival

KITZMILLER — The Kitzmiller Volunteer Fire Department has won a $75 prize as a result of its $17,000 investment for a brand new pumper equipped to handle 750 gallons of water.

Assistant Fire Chief Gerald Iman said Kitzmiller won the $75 first prize for the best fire fighting equipment from among some 100 fire companies of the Tri-State area which participated in the annual Mountain State Forest Festival parade last Thursday night at Elkins, W. Va. Shinnston, W. Va., placed second and Buckhannon, W. Va., ranked third in this competition.

One of the features of the Kitzmiller firemen's four-piece entry in the Elkins parade was a toy fire engine which was peddled along the entire route of the parade by Casey Sullivan, three-year-old local boy.

Assistant Chief Iman said the new pumper which participated in the parade had been acquired by the volunteers only about September 1.

Besides the pumper and the toy apparatus, Kitzmiller also had the chief's car and the ladies' auxiliary's station wagon in the Elkins parade.

Mr. Iman said that young Casey Sullivan usually gets a ride in the regular fire truck the last half of each parade after he gets tired of peddling along the route. However, he enjoyed the Elkins parade so much that he stayed at the wheel of his toy fire engine until the end of the parade.

Market Mixed But Posts Slight Gain On Average

NEW YORK (UPI) — A brief buying flurry at the close Monday enabled the stock market to extend its recovery into the fourth day.

The going was rough however, as enthusiasm bogged down noticeably in the dull trading session, but the list just managed to eke out a slight gain on average at the bell.

Plus and minus signs were almost evenly divided with 475 stocks advancing and only 10 less losing ground. The narrow total of 1,174 issues traded Monday included 234 which held unchanged.

The Dow-Jones industrial average rose 0.89 to 587.31, rails eased 0.26 to 125.95 and utilities

Demos Helped Peanuts More Than Missiles

Donald Mason Assails Record

"We can't beat Russia with peanuts," Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney, said last night in endorsing the Nixon-Lodge team at a Republican rally in Corriganville.

The Democrats, he said, had the audacity to criticize America's military strength and say there was a missile lag during the Eisenhower Administration.

He said that the Democrats, in eight years under President Truman, "spent 17 times as much on price supports for peanuts as they spent for long-range missiles."

Mr. Mason made the remarks at a rally attended by some 50 residents of the area and held in the Corriganville Fire Hall.

Urges GOP Support

The GOP speaker said that in the 1960's, America will need a president who has sound and sober judgement and a man who will resist temptation, who is a proven leader.

He said the American people must look beyond gestures and flamboyant speeches, since accomplishment is the lasting measure of true leadership.

In reviewing the Republican accomplishments of the past 7½ years, he paid tribute to Richard M. Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge, "who helped President Eisenhower achieve these accomplishments."

Kennedy and Johnson, he said, cannot work together, and split on 238 important votes in the Senate during the last eight years. He added that Senator Kennedy, in the 86th Congress, participated in only 24 per cent of the roll call votes.

The GOP, he said, has the best platform "and it won't cost any $18 billion dollars to implement it."

The Nixon-Lodge team, he said, know how to help the American economy expand without inflation.

Supports Mathias

State Senator Charles M. See spoke for Charles McC. Mathias, who is conducting a vigorous campaign to unseat Rep. John R. Foley, who is seeking reelection to Congress from Maryland's Sixth District.

Experience Mr. Mathias has gained as a member of the House of Delegates, as city attorney of Frederick and assistant attorney general, Sen. See said, puts the GOP candidate in a position to "represent Western Maryland as it should be represented."

Senator See accused Mr. Foley of making "irresponsible charges" against Mr. Mathias.

Del. Lester B. Reed, minority leader of the House of Delegates, served as master of ceremonies at the rally attended by some 50 residents of the Corriganville area.

The program included music by the Mt. Savage High School Band.

Alfalfa Weevil Control Cited In Farm Report

Alfalfa growers are expected to find it easier to control alfalfa weevils next year, following new recommendations from the University of Maryland Entomologists.

Joseph M. Steger, Allegany County farm agent, said yesterday the latest recommendations call for either a fall application of dieldrin, or a spring treatment with lindane.

Mr. Steger explained that the adult weevils are produced in May and June. However, they leave the alfalfa crop in the summer and return in the fall. Large numbers can be found in the field in late October and November.

They lay some of their eggs during these months and by applying dieldrin in the fall or winter, the farmer can kill the adult weevils and prevent egg laying.

Dieldrin can be applied in spray form, fertilizer-insecticide mixture or granulated form. Farmers should apply one pound of actual dieldrin per acre.

Mr. Steger said the insecticides should be applied after the last cutting in the fall and before new growth starts in the spring.

He further warns farmers who will use this insecticide that the alfalfa can not be pastured before it is mowed in the spring.

Lindane is the preferred treatment, it is applied in the spring when weevil larvae are present and feeding is visible. It has to be used at least 14 days before cutting or grazing the crop.

Lindane will also control pea aphid and meadow spittlebug. Mr. Steger recommends one half pound of actual lindane per acre in spray form. This amount, he said, is applied in 20 to 25 gallons of water per acre.

He cautions that alfalfa should not be sprayed with lindane if a root crop such as potatoes, carrots or turnips will follow in less than a year. Lindane may cause an off flavor in the root crop.

Baltimore Man Electrocutted At Luke Mill

A 45-year-old Baltimore mechanical engineer for Westinghouse Electric Company was electrocuted Sunday while checking a generator in the new section of the Luke Mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper.

He was identified as John J. DeArmy, of 922 Beverly Road, who had been staying at the Algonquin Hotel for the past five days while his firm was working for Tidewater-Hazelwood on the two new paper machines at the Luke Mill.

Dr. Benedict Skitaric, deputy county medical examiner, said DeArmy was pronounced dead at the scene of the electrocution by Dr. Robert Bess of Piedmont, who was called to the plant.

The medical examiner said the body was brought here for an autopsy. The examination showed gouge marks on the back of the victim's right hand, and a burn in the palm of his left hand.

Dr. Skitaric reported that Mr. DeArmy was working on the generator, got his right hand caught in the motor, and apparently grabbed a hot high voltage line in an effort to extricate himself.

Mr. DeArmy lived four or five minutes after receiving the shock, the medical examiner stated.

The man was found slumped over the 600-volt generator in the control room of the new finishing area.

Officials at the Luke Mill said there was no outcry, but added that the time of death was approximately 6:50 p. m.

Mr. DeArmy was employed as a mechanical engineer for Westinghouse Electric. He was honing the commutator on the generator at the time of the accident, Luke officials stated.

He was born September 3, 1915 in Windber, Pa. A World War II veteran, he was a member of the American Legion, Loyal Order of Moose and Fraternal Order of Eagles.

The body is being taken to the George A. Farley Funeral Home in Baltimore. Requiem mass will be Thursday morning in Catonsville. The body will be taken to Richland, Pa., for burial.

Mr. DeArmy was the son of McClellan and Mary (Boscock) DeArmy. He is survived by his wife, Nancy W., and four children.

The last rites of the Catholic church were given Mr. DeArmy at the scene of the accident in the mill Sunday night.

Women Invited To Sessions On Alterations

Two classes for clothing alteration demonstrations for Allegany County women are now being organized, according to Miss Ruth C. McColly, supervisor of home economics in the county public schools.

Mrs. Marie Farrell will give the women pointers and show them how to make clothing alterations.

The first program will be held at the Westernport Elementary School each Wednesday afternoon from 1:30 until 3:30 o'clock for six weeks beginning tomorrow and ending November 16. Man Is Given Year Term On Check Charges

John Henry Hilmer, 36, of RFD 1, Windber, Pa., yesterday was sentenced to one year in the Maryland House of Correction on two charges of cashing fraudulent checks here last year.

Hilmer was found guilty of two counts of obtaining money by fraudulent checks by Magistrate Paul W. Barnett and was sentenced to six months on each charge.

The Pennsylvania man was charged with passing two bad checks here last May for $60 and $35 drawn on the Citizens National Bank in Windber.

Hilmer appealed yesterday's decision by Magistrate Barnett and was committed to jail in default of $2,500 bond.

The court noted at the hearing yesterday that Hilmer had a long criminal record with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Hilmer was returned here September 21 from Ebsenburg, Pa., after having been released from a jail there.

Assistant State's Attorney Donald W. Mason represented the state at the hearing yesterday.

Woman, 80, Awaiting Deer Season

Bagging a multi-antlered buck is the aim of every hunter who goes into the woods during deer season.

Among the Allegany County nimrods this year will be Mrs. Cora Summerfield of Rawlings, who is 80 years old and for many years has enjoyed hunting.

The other day her husband, who no longer cares to follow the sport, dropped by the Allegany County Court House and purchased a hunting license for his wife.

He also purchased a deer hunting stamp along with the small game licenses. Mrs. Summerfield, who lives with her husband on a small plot of land in Rawlings, usually hunts in the immediate vicinity of the home place and is reported to be a dead aim on squirrels.

After she goes hunting with a nephew, Fred Psimer or by herself. She is well-acquainted with a 20 gauge shotgun and returns home with game.

Aside from her hobby of hunting, Mrs. Summerfield tends to the family garden and also keeps the grass trimmed.

County School Needs Listed At $3,500,000

Five-Year Report Is Submitted

A Maryland educator, who has made a study of school construction needs for the Legislative Council's committee on taxation and fiscal matters, has figured Allegany County's needs for the next five years at $3,500,000.

The study was the work of Dr. Charles W. Willis, superintendent of schools for Harford County, who estimated that school construction projects throughout Maryland should be increased about 10 per cent to meet enrollment increases.

Dr. Willis' figures list nothing for Allegany County during the 1960-61 school year, $500,000 in 1961-62 and $1 million per year for the ensuing three years.

Garrett County is down for $825,000 in the five-year span, $75,000 a year for three years and $300,000 each in the last two years. Washington County, Allegany's eastern neighbor, is listed for $5,000,000. The figures include $1 million each in the first, second and fourth years, $1,500,000 in the third year and $500,000 in the fifth year.

Frederick County is in line for nearly $10 million, according to Dr. Willis. The annual estimated needs for that county include $1,946,958 in 1960-61; $2,346,250 in 1961-62; $3,002,500 in 1962-63; $1,271,250 in 1963-64, and $1,215,000 in 1964-65, totaling $9,781,958.

Baltimore City's school needs are the greatest in the state, adding up to $75,544,609 in the five-year span. Montgomery County leads the 23 counties with $62,843,000, followed closely by Baltimore County with $60,000,000.

The state total need, as projected by Dr. Willis, is $305,799,366 in five years or more than $61,000,000 a year compared with the current average of $55 million.

Two other charts included with Dr. Willis' report show the amounts required for debt service costs for school construction and the required tax rate for debt service costs for school construction.

For Allegany County, the debt service costs remain steady through 1961-62 and then advance. The annual costs are $605,244, 1959-60; $604,317, 1960-61; $604,000, 1961-62; $675,000, 1962-63; $700,000, 1963-64, and $700,000, 1964-65.

The required tax rate for debt service costs for school construction in Allegany County goes down to a low of 22.7 cents in 1959-60, which already is past. Other rates include 23.7 cents, 1960-61; 22.7 cents, 1961-62; 24 cents, 1962-63; 25 cents, 1963-64, and 25 cents, 1964-65.

Garrett County's cost for school construction debt service reaches a peak of $145,000 in 1964-65. The annual costs for debt service in Garrett County are $122,820, 1959-60; $130,000, 1960-61; $135,000, 1961-62; $140,000, 1962-63; $140,000, 1963-64, and $145,000, 1964-65.

The required tax rate for debt service costs ranges between a low of 35 cents for 1959-60 and a high of 38 cents in the last three years of the span in Garrett County.

Slight Increase Noted In City Voting Rolls

Registration rolls of the City of Cumberland increased six to 9,405 during September.

Twenty-eight voters registered during the month, including 14 white males, 13 white females and one colored male.

The names of 22 voters, however, were stricken from the records. These included 20 deceased voters and two who moved outside the city.

The city registration rolls on October 1 included 4,951 white males, 4,302 white females, 86 colored males and 66 colored females for a total of 9,405.

Supreme Court Refuses Review In Payton Case

Eight Must Serve Terms In Prison

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eight persons convicted of conspiring to dynamite installations during the bitter Henderson, N. C., cotton mill strike must serve prison terms unless they undertake further court appeals.

The U. S. Supreme Court refused Monday to review the case. The court noted in its brief order that Justice Douglas favored hearing the appeal. Justice Black took no part in the action.

Boyd E. Payton of Charlotte, Carolinas director for the Textile Workers Union of America, and seven co-defendants were convicted in Vance County Superior Court in July last year.

Payton, 42, was sentenced to six to 10 years. Lawrence Gore and Charles Auslander received six to 10 years each. Warren Walker, Calvin Ray Pegram, Edward Abbott, and Johnnie Martin drew terms of five to seven years each. Malcolm Jarrell was given two to three years.

"I can only repeat that I am absolutely innocent of any wrong doing . . . I never talked with anyone, at any time about using any kind of explosives to destroy any kind of property," Payton said in a statement issued through the TWUA office in Charlotte. "My conviction is solely for the 'crime' of being a union leader."

In New York, the president of the TWUA, William Pollock, pledged that the union "has not given up its fight in behalf of these men. Our attorneys will continue to pursue every legal avenue to vindicate them."

Pollock repeated the TWUA's contention that the trial was unfair, conducted "with extraordinary haste" in an atmosphere of hysteria and resulting from trumped-up charges.

The long strike at the Harriet-Henderson cotton mills was marked by violence, including nighttime bombings. Gov. Luther Hodges finally called the National Guard out to maintain law and order. The strike began Nov. 17, 1958, when mill officials and the TWUA were unable to reach agreement on an arbitration provision in a new contract. The mills reopened in February last year with non-union workers. It was then that most of the disorders began.

Mrs. Lindsay said the chapter is planning an open class in advance first aid, the time and place to be announced later.

In order to qualify a person must have a current standard first aid certificate and must be at least 16 years of age or completed the 10th grade in school.

Those interested in taking the course are asked to contact Mrs. Lindsay by phoning PA 2-1760.
